Those who give have all things . . .

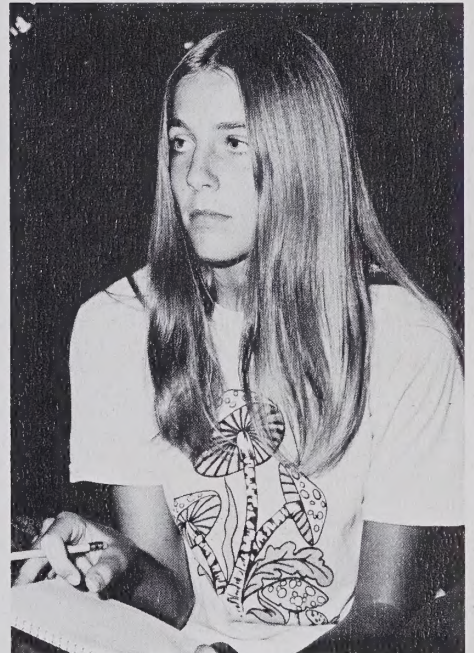

We wish to dedicate the 1973 BREVARDIER to one who has dedicated her time and energy to Brevard High School. She has given much to many — in the classroom, in her club sponsorship, and most important, in her compassion toward each individual. Thank you, Mrs. Ideker, for giving us a part of yourself.

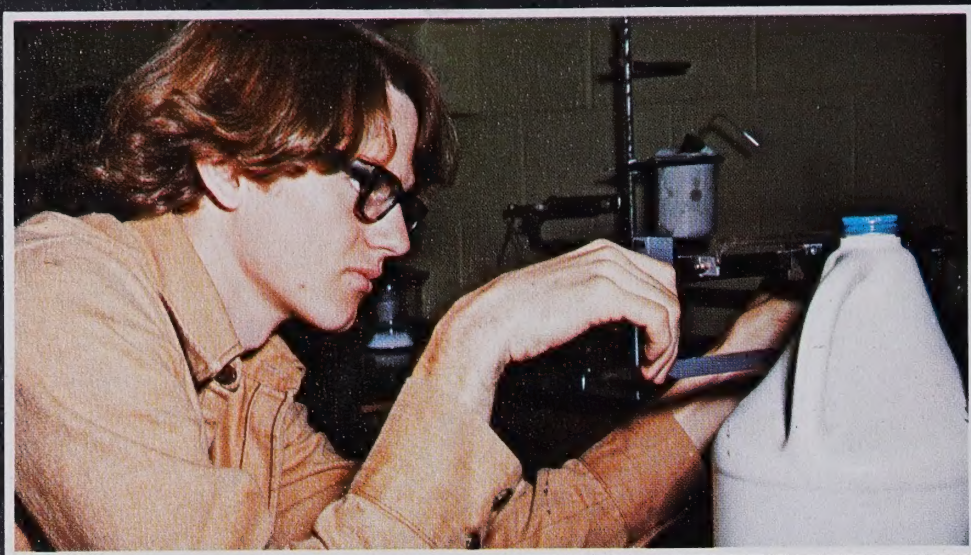

TOGETHER 1973

Brevard Senior High School, like all academic institutions, has gone through many changes. These changes have resulted in conflict, overshadowing the unity of our school. This was perhaps the first year, in many years that our school was truly together.

The buildings and campus have remained relatively the same. The administration and faculty continued the majority of their policies. The difference was the people. Students and faculty began to reach out for something better. People became individuals, with one general objective — to improve, not only academically but also personally. We looked for the good, projected this, and worked through the system to change the bad. Perhaps even soul-searching became a part of our growth. To be able to be together was probably the most important phase of our total educational experience.

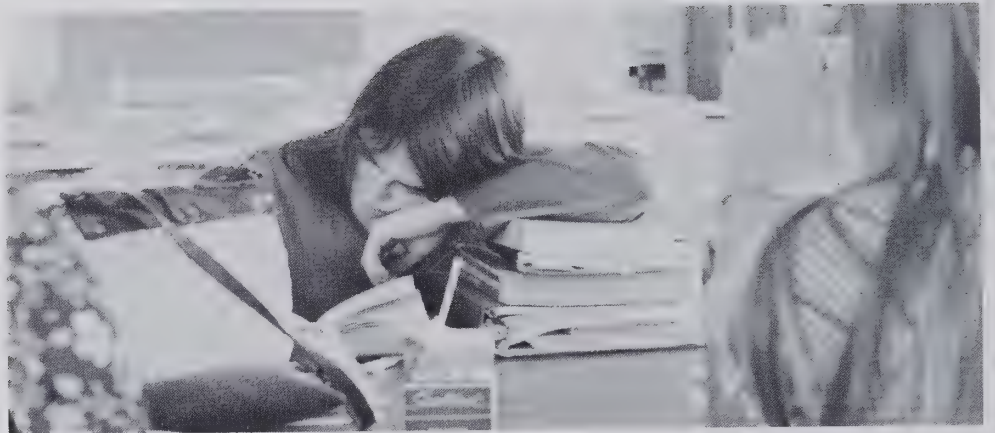

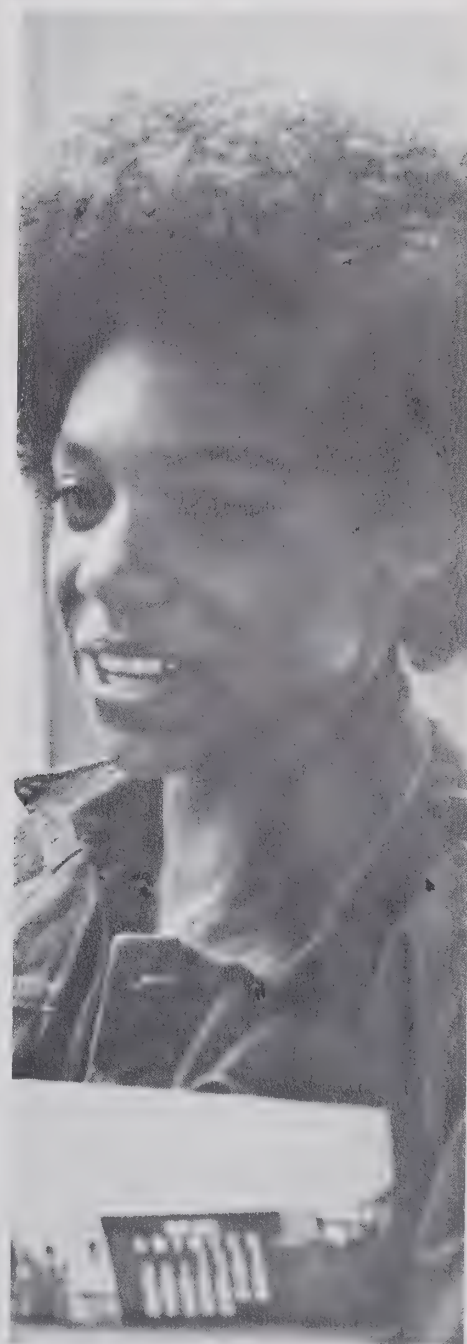

Students began to communicate not only with each other, but also with the faculty and administration. They worked together for one main objective — the passage of the school bond issue. Many students actively campaigned, while others used their newly acquired right to vote, to attain its success. 1972 also brought about a national election. Students realized their power to guide the country's destiny and made sure they were heard. The apathy of the past was slowly changing to concern for today.

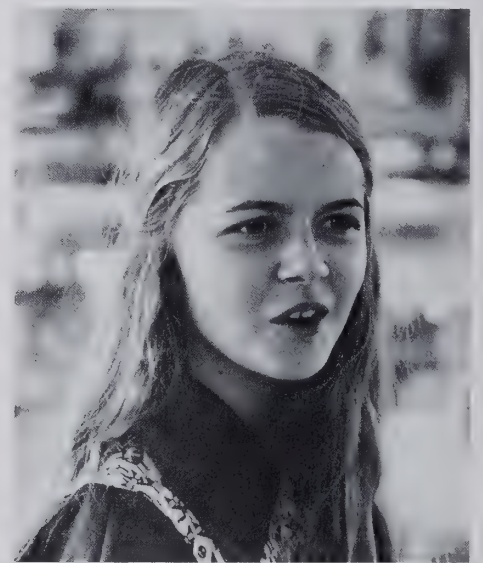

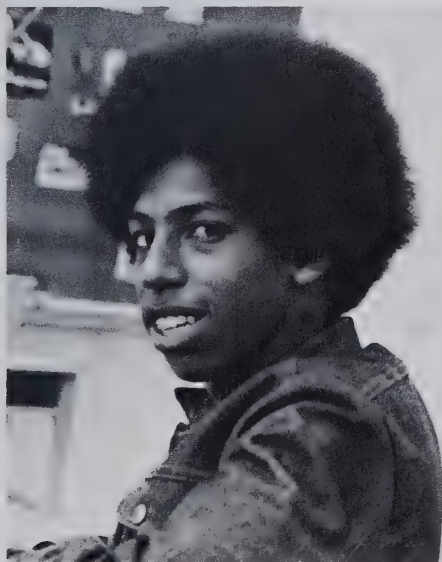

Togetherness didn't just happen. It wasn't an accident, but a combination of definite efforts focused in the same direction. There were difficult times when we wondered who really counted, and then when it came down to it, we knew that a part of every individual cared, thus we all counted. We wondered if all the pain was actually worth it. We were ready to quit — tired of trying. That's when a simple smile would make us know we were accomplishing something. It really was worthwhile.

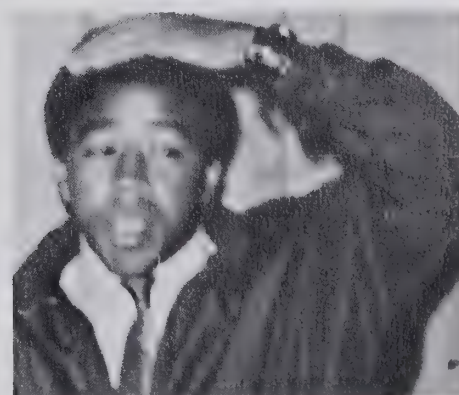

There was not only a lot of caring at Brevard High School, there was also a lot of loving. This one ingredient held more people together than all others combined. Laughing with the world and knowing our friends were genuinely pleased for us was true happiness. We felt like we belonged to something important, and we knew it when we cried the last time we heard the school song. We were truly together in 1973.

ACADEMICS

Concern for feelings . . . Willingness to listen . . . Understanding the misunderstood . . . Giving, seldom to receive . . . Friendships to rely on . . . Being an individual . . . Differences that brought us together.

Administration deals with

Mr. Stanley finds pleasure in everyday occurrences at BHS.

Faced with daily problems, such as apathy, and problems of greater concern, such as the school bond issue, the administration worked endlessly to dissolve these problems under the leadership of Mr. Stanley, in his fourth year as principal of BHS.

Students seeking advice and guidance felt at ease going to Mr. Williams and Mrs. Cope for the necessary consultation. Juniors and Seniors were greatly benefited from the Guidance Dept. in the selection of colleges through such help as college day.

New to the Administration Dept., Mrs. Winchester kept an accurate record of all the students' absences. She and Coach Emory had the continual task of disciplining students with their best interest in mind.

Mrs. Bryson and Mrs. Dodson were joined this year by Cathey Hooper, who quickly adjusted to the school atmosphere through her experienced co-workers. Daily deadlines were met resulting in order and preciseness of the office.

Mr. Corbin, Mrs. Olson, Mrs. Gordon, and Mr. Case all work to improve our school.

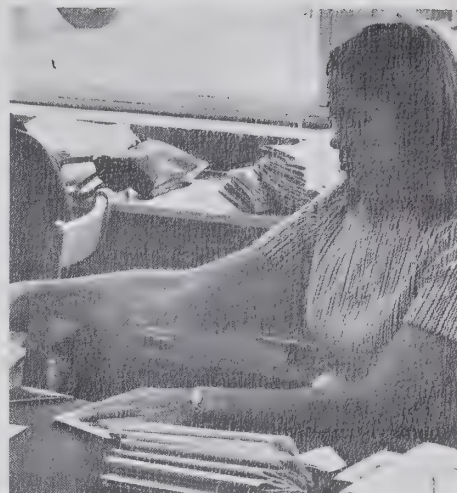

Mrs. Holliday makes plans for a meeting for parents and teachers.

the "Year of the Shaft"

Mr. Emory assures Mrs. Winchester that things will improve.

Mrs. Dotson works diligently to meet many demands.

Nothing is unexpected as Cathey Hooper soon finds out.

Mrs. Cope tries unsuccessfully to show Mr. Williams the humor of a student's request.

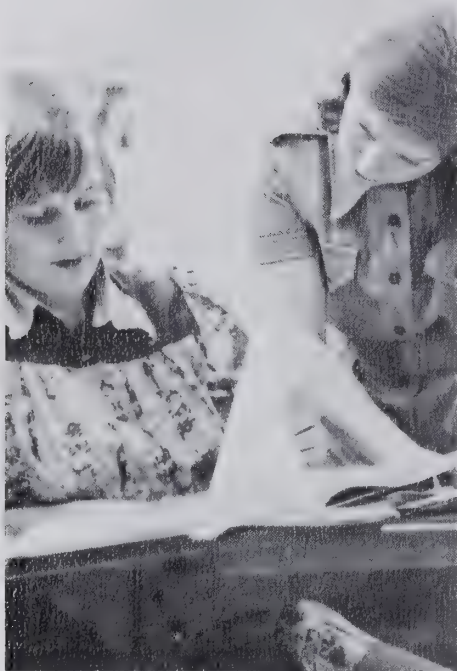

Mrs. Bryson often works overtime to complete many deadlines.

Nine-week courses stimulate

The English Dept., for the second year, offered nine-week mini courses in various fields of English. There were many definite advantages to the mini-course. Students were able to select courses which more nearly fit their individual interests, abilities, and needs. With the addition of seven new courses, and one new teacher, Mrs. Carol Waterson, the English Department offered a wide variety of courses, from Relationships Between Man And Woman to Introduction To Literary Criticism. Some students were dismayed by the choice of English courses offered during a nine weeks, but usually schedules and classes could be worked out so that the student was in a class he was interested in and could benefit from. Teachers were able to specialize in subject areas which interested them and for which they were prepared.

Mrs. Baker is pleased with her students interest in Print, Sight and Sound.

Mrs. Waterson shows Cindy Bellefeull how to locate an answer.

Ken Masengill wonders if Mr. Goins really knows what he is talking about.

interest in English

Linda Kirk demonstrates the many unknown uses of Webster's Dictionary.

Mrs. Lathrop portrays her loyalty to the Mickey Mouse Fan Club.

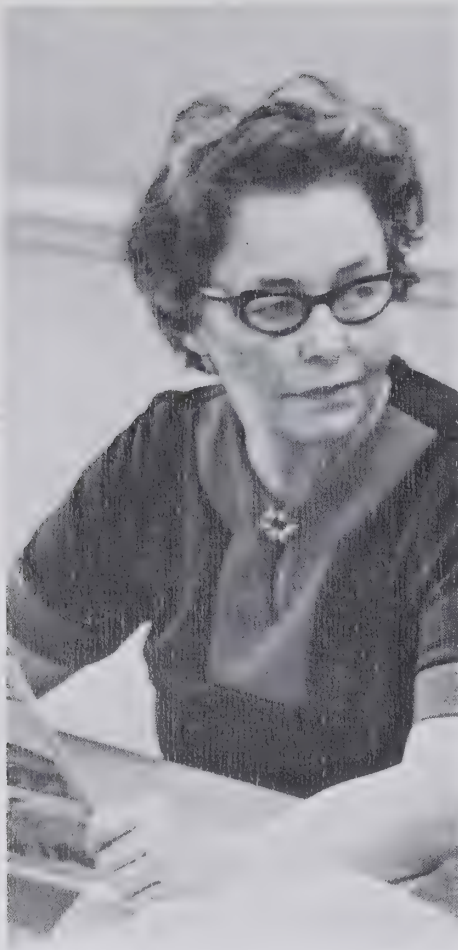

Mrs. Wynn is never overtaken by student excuses.

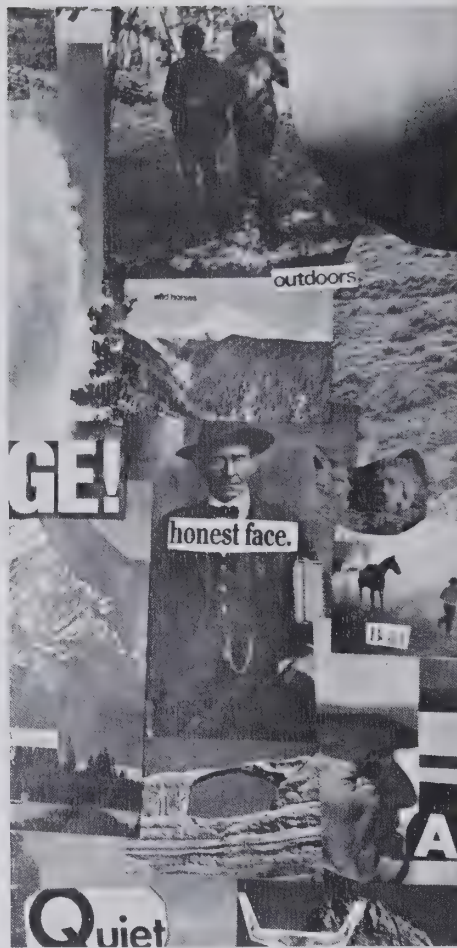

Abilities of Mrs. Rosenthal are shown in the faculty skit.

Mr. Henson ponders over the right words used in answering a student's question.

Momentary classroom interruptions catch Mrs. Cook's attention.

Students can express themselves freely through bulletin boards.

Mrs. Medford gives her undivided attention to her lesson plans.

Mrs. Ideker's challenging questions demand answers from students.

Prairie dogs and lions spark enthusiasm from Highest Form of Life students.

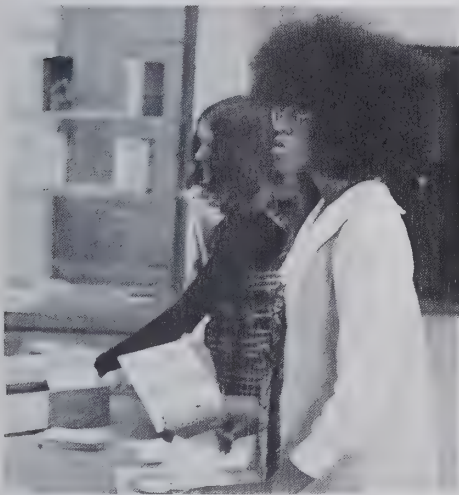

An asset to learning

When a student was faced with the difficult task, such as the writing of a research paper, the first place he turned was to the library. With its shelves of books and the librarians' assistance, the student could handle almost anything. The atmosphere in the library was silent, but not oppressive, and thus enabled the student to concentrate on his work.

Teachers, as well as students, viewed the library as a valuable source of information through its resources such as filmstrips, overhead projectors, books, magazines, pamphlets, tapes, and records.

Denise Deavor listens patiently to Mrs. Galloways valuable instructions.

Sandra Conley waits patiently for a librarian.

Mrs. Reiter is always interested, as she proves to Kelly Hughes, who is satisfied completely.

Paul Balch finds the newspapers a valuable source of information.

Mrs. Norville concentrates on paper work necessary to keep the library running smoothly.

Math students gain knowledge

Mrs. Bohan glances amusingly over Cathey Daniels' pretest.

Mrs. Abercrombie, Dept. Head, patiently watches as Lesa Pegram reworks a math problem.

Grading test papers keeps Mr. Mulkey busy.

Mr. Beard explains the advantages of the new math system.

through individualized work

Mrs. Andrews enjoys the chance to help students, such as Cindy Bruner, individually.

The newest and most important word in the Math Department this year was change. Students participated in a pilot program under the State Department of Public Instruction. For the math teachers, the school year did not start its customary three days before students began, but months before, in the planning of this program.

The stress of this program was on individualization. Each student worked at his own speed, and took the tests at his own speed. Three varieties of each course were offered: an honors, college prep, and minimum course in each class. The new individualized study did not apply to General Math or Consumer Math.

Mrs. Hutchins prepares her work for her next class.

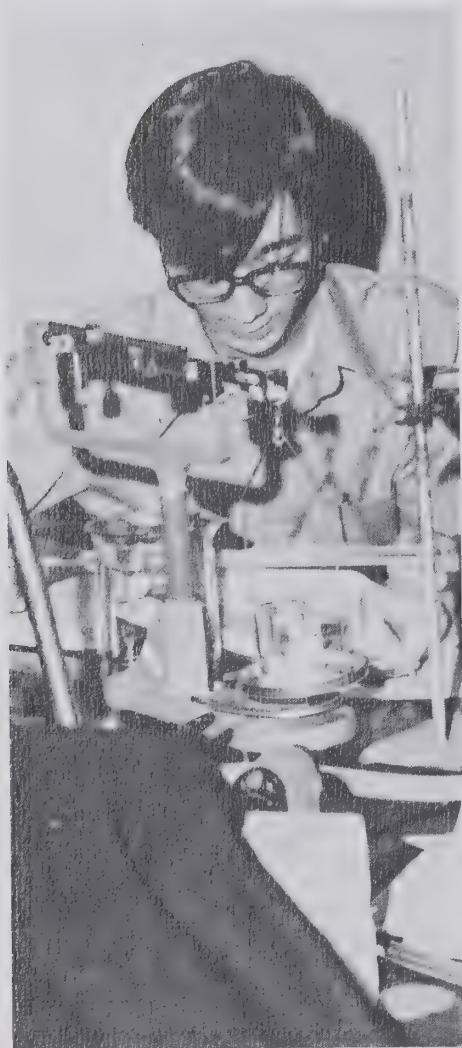

Algebra III student, Angela Barnette, works hard to complete the required amount of work.

Biology converts to mini

Coach Deal always finds time in his busy schedule to help students such as Martha and David Hayes.

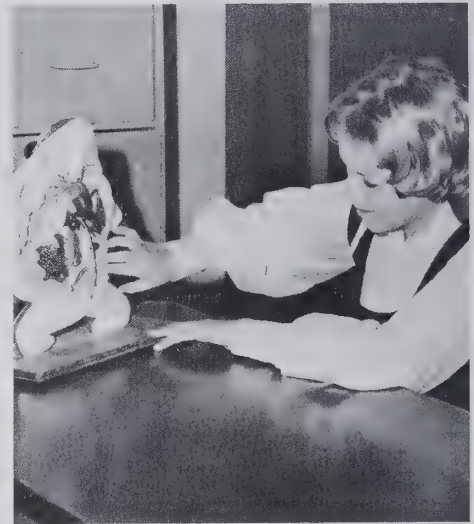

The Science Department offered a variety of courses for general requirements and also for the college preparatory students. Offering nine week mini-courses proved to be an asset to the department. Each student must have obtained at least one credit in biology and at least one in Physical Science upon graduation. Many college bound students followed up Physical Science with Chemistry or Physics. Advanced courses were introduced this year; Microbiology, Human Reproduction, and Graphoptics. The Graphoptics students processed pictures for the school newspaper and annual.

Mike Spanbouer works precisely to complete his necessary data in Adv. Chemistry.

Col. Hardin leisurely points out certain aspects of Physical Science on the graph.

Renee Moretz makes use of one of the biology visual aids.

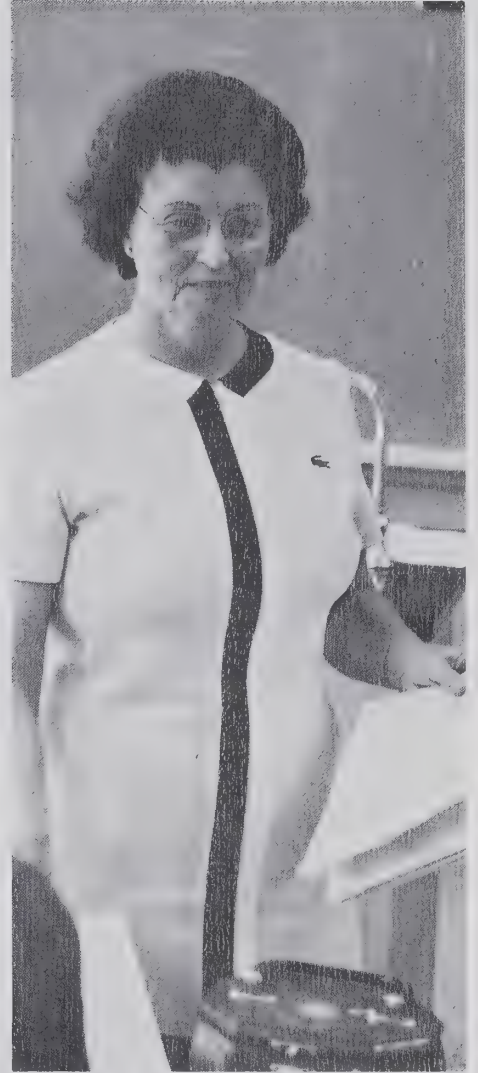

Students are introduced to experiments early in Physical Science.

courses in Science Dept.

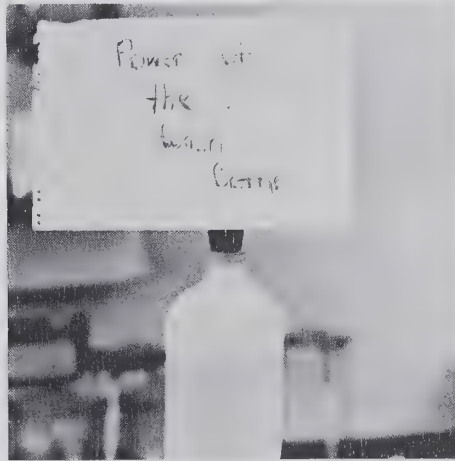

Sam Feaster and Mark Tooley find chemistry knowledge useful in Physics.

Receiving worksheets is a familiar sight in Mrs. Warren's classroom.

Mr. Whitesides gives students a clearer understanding of the problem by working it on the board.

A tribute is paid to a necessity of science students.

Mr. McGaha tries to coax the birds into talking.

Janie Conley and Richard Harris use the library for history reports.

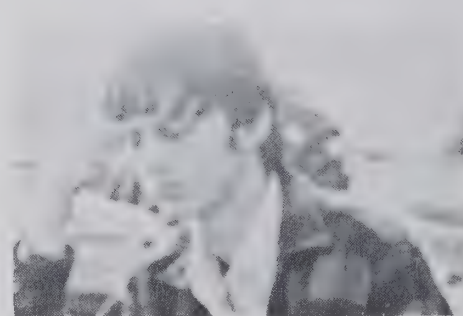

Mrs. Stern enjoys teaching at BHS.

Social Studies tries nine-week

Mrs. Bishop reminds her class that there will be no talking during the test.

The Social Studies Department followed the example of the English Dept. in offering nine-week mini courses. The new curriculum proved to be as effective in Social Studies as in English. Students were offered more difficult courses in which they received more honor points. Field trips added depth to the social studies classes, such as the one to see Nickolas and Alexandra. A variety of courses was offered each period every nine weeks.

David Holden concentrates.

Lydia Folger discovers Honor Courses demand more work than she had expected.

Mrs. Bridges writes the next day's assignment down before discussing it.

courses and likes them

Special projects add extra interest in history classes.

Coach Robinson assists Mike Heath on taking history notes.

After thought, Miss Gary decides the question asked is not covered in her course.

¿Habla usted Español?

Enlightened by the arrival of Mr. Phan and his years of teaching experience, the Foreign Language Department led the students to a clearer understanding of the French and Spanish languages. First year students were introduced to the foreign languages primarily through listening and speaking the language. The second year was basically grammar and composition. Third and fourth year students learned about the culture of the countries, from which the languages originated. Although enrollment was small, Spanish V increased the courses offered by the Foreign Language Department. Filmstrips, records, tapes, and other aids enriched the learning process of the Foreign Language students. Students sang songs and played games in the foreign languages to increase their understanding.

Mrs. Brittan always has time to help her students with difficult pronunciation.

Spanish I students are enriched by games such as this, played in the classroom.

Mrs. Winchester listens to a student's translation.

Parlez-vous Français?

Jackie Delk understands French easier with earphones.

Mr. Phan's smile is familiar to all his students.

Miss Hooper expresses joy after French students properly pronounce and translate phrases.

Mary Jane Johnson enjoys and also learns French with the use of French magazines.

Business Education

Anita Long works hard to complete her Office Occupations assignment.

Mrs. Leinster and Fran Carr finish up a "rush job" for another department.

Enrolling approximately one-third of the student body, the Business Department at Brevard High helped to prepare potential office workers. Education for business is a broad field of study, composed of a sequence of learning experiences from basic to specialized skills and attitudes necessary to the world of office work.

The Business Department was not just for the college bound student, but for the high school graduate as well. Students performed many services for the school in on-the-job training. The Future Business Leaders of America Club added depth to the curriculum.

Basic Business and Personal Typing were added to the Business curriculum. Basic Business introduced the student to the everyday business activities and situations he will face in his adult life. Personal Typing was offered as a semester course geared to the college bound senior.

Jennifer Driscoll learns to use the duplicator.

is a broad field of study

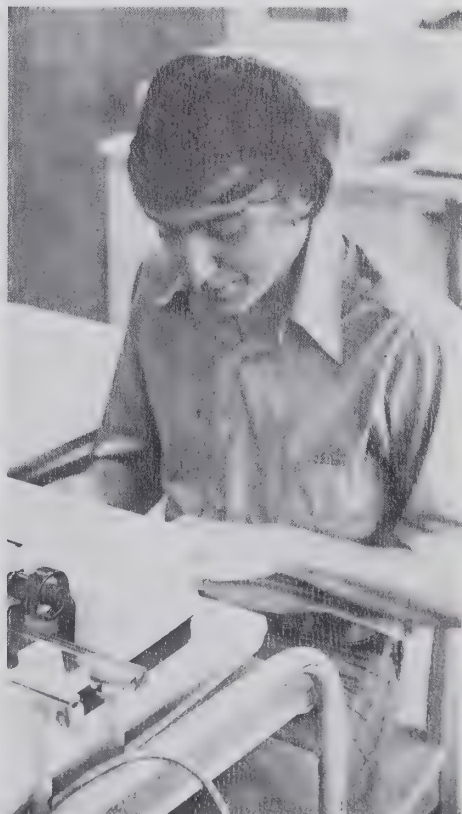

Miss McGaha tells her students that flattery will get them nowhere.

Beth Norton concentrates on her Bookkeeping assignment.

Chris Sneed is puzzled over the section that Mrs. Owen has just finished explaining.

Tommy Bryson discovers much co-ordination is needed in typing class.

Necessary skills are learned

Mr. Edwards carefully looks over Bryan Rogers' drafting project before answering his questions.

Mr. Bradley checks the papers of his many classes.

Students completing courses in the Vocational Dept. were equipped with valuable training for their future employment.

Necessary skills were achieved in both classrooms and in actual on-the-job training through Distributive Education.

Broad fields of agriculture, drafting and construction were explored by students through participation.

Mr. Farley shows concern for students by thoroughly answering their questions.

Protection measures such as safety glasses are used.

Mr. Osborne enjoys teaching bricklaying at BHS.

Mrs. Lyda smiles at a students comment.

Mr. Howell looks over a student's application for a job.

Mr. Williams waits on his carpentry students before going to the Jr. High.

Complexities of life are discovered

Vanessa Stiles and Craig Hooper share books such as The Merck Manual that are useful in Health Occupations.

Health Occupations proved to be a valuable asset to those students planning a medical career. On-the-job as well as classroom training made students aware of medical terms, diseases, and systems of the body. Students received valuable experience from working at the Transylvania County Hospital. Due to lack of funds, there was not a sick room this year.

Cynthia Wynn looks through pamphlets on careers.

Mrs. Balding makes her classes more interesting by the use of visual aids.

Lifelike figures are useful to Health Occupation students.

Home Ec. is more than one thinks

The Home Economics Department provided an opportunity to obtain knowledge and develop skills for homemaking roles, or dual roles as homemakers and wage-earners. Cooking and sewing were not the only skills learned in this department, as many people think. Child development, clothing and textiles, consumer education, family economics, family relationships, foods and nutrition, grooming and personal appearance, housing and home furnishings, and home care of the sick were also involved in the Home Economics Department.

Food Service classes served food to selected groups during the second semester to gain experience in food preparations and service.

Mrs. McGinnis demonstrates the various arrangements that can be made with ivy to her class.

Martha Owen puts to use one of the many skills acquired in Home Ec.

Gail Pressley learns that cleaning up is an important part of cooking.

Karen Nicholson receives her report card from Mrs. Burrell.

Addition of equipment adds interest

The addition of secretarial and home economics equipment furthered the curriculum and made Resource Learning classes more interesting. Students developed into useful and productive citizens, able to obtain jobs and support themselves in their future.

A new course was offered, that of Work Occupation, which was open to both girls and boys. To show their involvement at BHS, the students participated in the cleaning of the football stadium after games.

Lynn Robinson puts her creativity to use.

Mrs. Williams thoughtfully prepares her lesson plans for the following day, proving her efficiency.

Jerry Smith takes pride in his bulletin board on display.

Mr. Strigo reluctantly takes time out for a picture.

Ready for the Road

Coach Johnson gives back tests for correction of wrong answers.

Most Sophomores viewed Driver's Education as one more step toward receiving their driver's license. Offered in the summer, as well as during the school year, Driver's Education proved to be vital for anyone learning to drive.

Whether Coach Johnson was teaching in the classroom, which was the auditorium, or in the car, he got his message across well. Students did not just learn how to drive, but more important, how to drive safely.

Study Halls are necessary

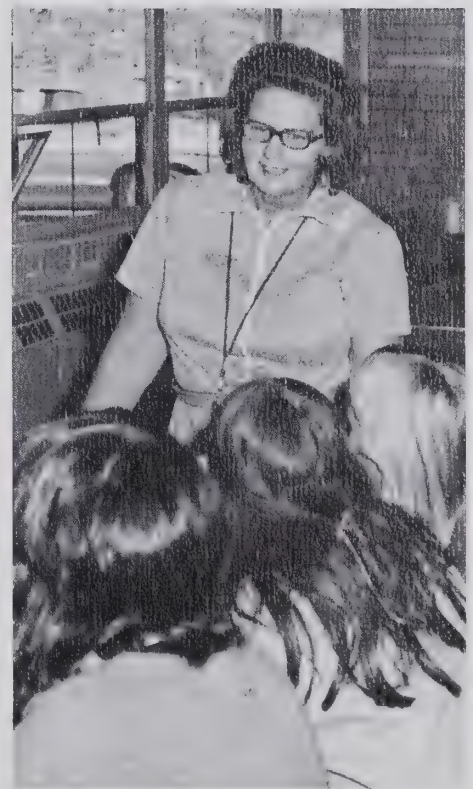

For the first time BHS had two staff members solely for the purpose of maintaining the study halls. In the past years teachers had to monitor these study halls, thus sometimes wasting valuable time that could have been spent teaching in the classroom.

Billy Dechant enjoys his Study Hall.

Mrs. Gary checks absences with the absence list.

Mrs. Cooper talks with students before the bell rings.

Abilities are developed

Miss Murrary's duties don't stop on the gym floor.

David Johnson warms-up.

Coach Owenby loves it.

Physical Education was more than a course in which students participated in activities such as volleyball, softball, football, and other sports. The purpose of the Physical Education department was to prepare the students physically, mentally, and socially for their later life. Students learned the value of sportsmanship, and will hopefully carry this with them. Physical Education was a demanding course required for all freshmen, which resulted in many new experiences for them. Upperclassmen enjoyed the advanced classes that were offered to them.

Total dedication of many

Dr. Palmer and Mr. Harwell discuss a musical score of a selection to be presented by the band.

Music courses were not as easy to enroll in, as many of the other courses offered at BHS. Most of the band members had been playing since they began Junior High School. The marching band as well as the concert band were enthused by competition such as that in Bristol, Tenn.-Virg. and Marion, N.C.

Students who were interested in chorus auditioned for a part in either of the two chorus classes. Students participating in the Music Dept. not only acquired musical skills, but also learned the importance of group effort.

Unknown course is real to many Students involved in the art classes left BHS everyday to go to the Jr. High to put their creativity and imagination to use. Abilities were developed through various media and subject matter. Outdoor classes helped capture nature on paper. Models such as bicycles, still lifes, and human figures were captured.

Mrs. Evan's guidance directed the students dedicated to art. Students found that making the trip was worth it.

Linda Cordell is completely involved in her art work.

Mrs. Evans patiently explains the assignment once again to John Hemphill.

Miss Netschert makes sure she has the necessary materials for class.

Choices are improved

Front row: Mrs. Mooney; Mrs. Neal; Mrs. Clark; Mrs. Blanton. Back row: Mrs. Brissey; Mrs. Clark; Mrs. Perry; Mrs. Oliver; Mrs. Hunter; Mrs. Garren.

Mrs. Neal keeps her records straight by counting the money.

Emory Gash proceeds to entertain classmates at the lunch table.

The difficult task of planning the menus and feeding the majority of the people at Brevard High was fulfilled by the competent cafeteria staff. Under the supervision of Mrs. Neal, the lunchroom was kept in proper running order.

Confusion arose from the new lunchlines, higher lunch prices, and misunderstandings over senior privileges. These soon faded out with time. The lunchroom pleased students by offering chocolate milk once a week.

Although students were responsible for clearing their plates, the cafeteria staff had their hands full in the cleaning up after each lunch shift.

Pride shown through work

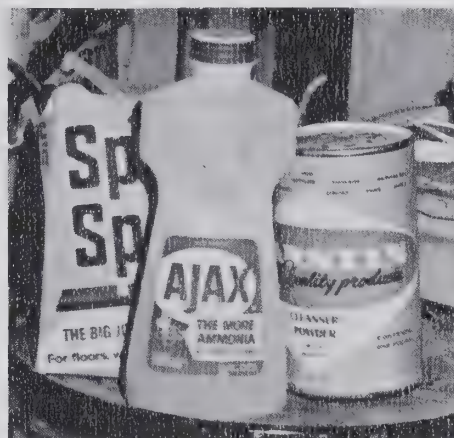

Mr. Howell and Mr. Glaze find the smoking area to be a major cleaning job.

Working on a scheduled basis, the maintenance staff answered the needs of maintaining a clean campus.

Taking pride in our school was shown through their continual efforts of improving and keeping up the school. This pride showed even more than that of the students.

Work not only consisted of the buildings themselves, but also the grounds, which included long hours after school was out. Work like cleaning after dances and sports was part of their responsibilities.

These are three assets to the upkeep of our school.

Mrs. Ballard finds a moment to relax in her busy schedule of cleaning.

Mr. Brissey works diligently to present the students a favorable surrounding.

FEATURES

When each student offered something of himself, he offered his own talent and creativity. His giving and sharing remained a part of him throughout every day. Though there were many long roads to walk and steep hills to climb, together we learned to strive for better things.

Intelligence and leadership

The Top 5 in the Senior Class are: L. Folger, S. Hunter, S. DeLong, D. Haney, G. Abercrombie.

In the Hall of Fame the outstanding achievements of both Seniors and underclassmen were highlighted. These awards, though covering various areas of achievement, such as music, athletics, and intelligence, all have one thing in common. They were all the result of much outstanding dedication and hard work. These achievements in various fields all unite to form a well rounded student body, all working together to keep B.H.S. a school everyone can be proud of.

S. Bumgarner, Miss FBLA, escorted by D. Byers.

In order to promote interest in their activities, four BHS clubs chose young ladies to represent them at Christmas and state conventions. Miss Sherri Bumgarner was chosen by Future Business Leaders of America for state competition in Durham. Miss Gail Osteen was selected Miss Christmas by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, while Miss Audrey Bryson was selected Future Farmers of America Sweetheart. In addition to being selected Sweetheart for the Distributive Education Clubs of America, Joan Adams was also named Student of the Year for the local club.

Some of these students entered district and state contests pertaining to their career choices.

Excitement runs high

Excitement ran high during Homecoming Week as students and faculty participated in float building, skits, and the parade. Highlighting the events was the presentation of the Homecoming Court to the student body and secret balloting for the Queen. The candidates were chosen by senior members of the football team. On Friday afternoon, the court and escorts and many clubs represented BHS in the Homecoming Parade.

In pre-game activities, anxious fathers presented their daughters to the spectators. Then, at half-time, tension mounted as Miss Pam Parker was crowned Queen to reign over the festivities. The Blue Devils took honors, too, by defeating Erwin 56-0. The week was climaxed with a dance in the gymnasium honoring the Queen and her court.

The theme of the annual Sweetheart Ball, held early in March, was "The Gay 90's." By holding bake sales and selling ribbons, the Booster Club earned enough money and were able to begin preparations early in the year for this gala occasion. The gymnasium was beautifully decorated in an 1890's street scene.

The male students of the student body selected 15 ladies to be presented at the ball. Senior Pam Parker was crowned 1973 Sweetheart.

CLUBS

BHS students stimulated interest in old clubs, while new clubs were formed. Active participation led to the formation of the Inter-Club Council. This year, clubs experienced the true meaning of personal involvement.

active Student Council

Along with better ideas for improvement, the members of the BHS Student Council drafted an updated aim for their club. "The purpose of the BHS-SC is to be an organization which communicates, creates, and unifies and will represent each student through its existence as a service for the improvement of the total educational experience."

Student leaders attended a workshop at Montreat during the summer to prepare for the upcoming year. Among some of the ideas gained were to form an Inter-Club Council and a Student Relations Council.

Officer elections were conducted at the beginning of the year and members actively promoted the School Bond campaign. The Student Council coordinated Homecoming Week, and served the community by aiding the Christmas House.

The combination of hard work and new ideas produced a progressive Student Council.

Key Club aids food drive

The BHS key Club, sponsored by Mr. Mulkey and the Kiwanas Club, was a service organization concerned with school and community projects.

Their projected activities involved campus beautification and clean-up. Along with the Keyettes, the Key Club prepared an enjoyable skit for a pep rally. Other projects planned were putting benches on the campus and canned food collection. In March, some Key Club members attended the Carolina's District Convention in Charleston, S. C.

Sponsors, Mrs. Bishop and Miss McGaha, look over the budget.

The Keyettes was a relatively new organization in its second year at BHS. With motto, "We Build," the club sponsored many service projects such as work in the concession stands, selling fruit cakes for the hospital, and having coat checks at various school functions.

All 28 members were required to maintain a "C" average and turn in minimum work hours to remain in the club. Keyette sponsors were Mrs. Pat Bishop and Miss Billie J. McGaha.

Future Farmers obtain a

Members of Brevard's FFA chapter undertook many projects designed to give them a general knowledge in many skills including leadership, cooperation, and citizenship. Representatives from the organization attended the State FFA convention, and the District Rally in Franklin.

Social activities included the Parent-Son Banquet and the Spring

Picnic. Community service projects carried out were constructing and erecting mail box posts, and a donation to the Christmas House food drive. Sponsored by Mr. Bradley and under the leadership of president Clifton Fisher, the Future Farmers of America worked as the tool of learning for the members aspiring to be farmers.

The Future Homemakers of America was an organization with the purpose of promoting the joys and satisfactions of homemaking. It was an active club that organized projects such as: the FHA Rally, a Christmas party, the FFA and FHA picnic, and a Mother-Daughter Banquet.

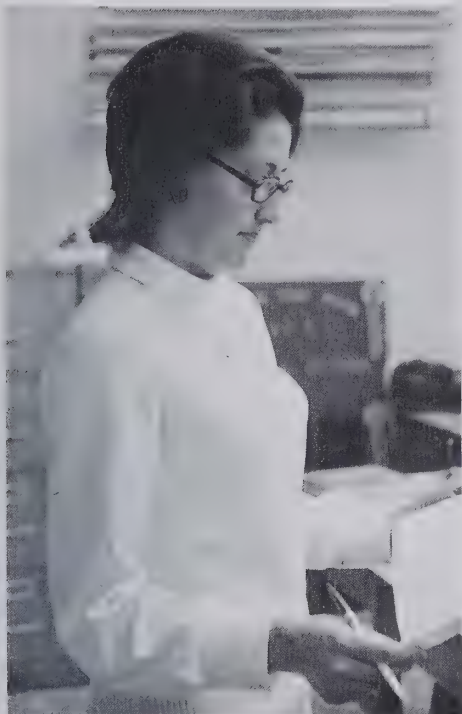

The members developed interest in home economics careers and related occupations by attending meetings and taking part in the varied activities.

Members gain business skills

The BHS Future Business Leaders of America Club was made up of 43 girls planning to enter in business and office careers. The purpose of the club was to further the skills and knowledge of business practices.

At the beginning of the year officers were installed and new members were initiated. Activities included serving refreshments at a faculty meeting and constructing a Christmas float. The local club planned to install new chapters in Western North Carolina. Under the leadership of Mrs. Owen, FBLA students strived for a progressive club.

VICA students, both in Health Occupation and Industrial Cooperative Training, strived to develop their leadership abilities. Through participation in educational, vocational, civic, and social activities, VICA students attained the ability to plan together, organize, and carry out projects. Fund-raising activities included selling candied apples at the football games, and bake sells.

On November 9th, VICA students hosted the VICA District VIII Meeting. During Thanksgiving and Christmas, VICA members served their community by giving aid to underprivileged families. In the spring, VICA participated in competitive activities at McDowell High School, and ICT student-sponsored an Employer-Employee Banquet.

Bus Drivers keep tight schedules

The demanding responsibilities of driving school buses required reliable and mature individuals.

Achieving the license to drive a bus was a goal worth reaching. The first task of each driver was to learn a route. They also had to cope with all types of discipline problems and weather conditions.

By serving the school and community, the bus drivers gained valuable experience.

BHS charts two new clubs

The Mountain Odyssey Hiking Club, advised by Miss Gary, provided members with greater skills in hiking and appreciation of nature. Some of the completed hikes were: Pilot Mountain, Cantrell Creek Lodge, and Caney Bottom. Each trail was given a point total determined by length of the trail and difficulty.

The Riding Club was created to promote interest in the field of riding and to provide an opportunity for those wanting to attain skill in this sport. Among their projected activities, the club attended horse shows and organized group rides. The club was sponsored by Mrs. Stern, and Mr. Bradley presided as activities advisor.

The skillful direction of Mr. James Harwell and hard work by the band members led to a Number 1 rating in Bristol, Tennessee. Brevard High School was the only school represented by two band leaders. Drum Major Nathan Smith and Drum Majorette Vicky Haney came in second among all the Drum Majors and Majorettes at the Bristol band festival. Members were rewarded by their many hours of practice with enthusiastic receptions at football games and parades. The band and majorettes worked closely together to develop precision in their routines.

Following competition at Bristol, the band began practicing for concert presentation. A Christmas concert was presented December 18th at the BHS auditorium.

The Brevard High School band was a source of pride to the school and the community.

Broadcaster publishes every three

Advisor, Mrs. Baker, assigns rooms for paper distribution.

During the '72-'73 school year, the Broadcaster became an opinionated, informative paper. Published every three weeks, the Broadcaster covered the complete spectrum of high school activities. It dealt not only with school events, but with nationwide problems also.

The paper participated this year in the 36th annual school press project, sponsored by the WNC Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, Inc.

The letters to the editor, news, features, and sports articles covered many areas. This type of journalism aroused interest among many students.

During the final stage of producing the paper, Co-editors Ron Poor and Chris Johnson aid Gordon Byrd in setting the type.

spirit of BHS

While attempting to chronicle an accurate record of the years events, the BREVARDIER staff utilized creative thinking and planning in producing an annual of interest to the students.

Much work and time was spent in writing copy and getting appropriate pictures. Deadlines had to be met, and much responsibility fell on the sponsor, Mrs. Leinster, as well as the staff.

A unified effort produced an annual depicting highlights of 1972-73.

SPORTS

This year sports shared the thrills of victory and the agonies of defeat. They won loving victory and when they lost, they were depressed, but determination and the will to start over and work together made them ready for their opponents.

Cross Country got more recognition this year than ever before. All of the runners improved greatly as the season progressed.

This years runners, under Colonel Beard's direction, had the determination to win. They glorified victory and accepted defeat with the idea of doing better next time.

Underclassmen made up a large section of the team. This fact has given the team great chances to improve next year.

A handshake starts each game.

This year the A-team played a very rugged schedule which included some of the best teams in Western Carolina. The final record of 8-1-1 proves that the Devils will benefit in the years to come by the advancement of these young ball players. Combined with the varsity, the A-team got valuable experience in practice. Learning by observation and participation, they realized how easily victory can be achieved.

Next year they will gain more experience as varsity players.

Season ends 8-2

A progressing offense, a power packed defense . . . BHS blitzed, bombed, handed off, and intercepted their way to 8th in the state.

The Devils suffered through calamities of Pisgah and Tuscola, but got it together to win over Hendersonville.

Throughout the season, Devils scored 285 points while they allowed the opposing teams 62 points. In five of their games, the Devils handed their opponents shut outs.

Many Devils were honored by being chosen to be on various teams. Mike Heath, Dennis Clark, Danny Walker, Randy Frisbee, Stan Hudson, Stanley Robinson, Ronnie Banther, Micky Marvin, Van Zeigler, Ricky Salter, Brad Palmer, and Gil Whitmire were named to be on the All Conference Football Team. All state honors went to Ronnie Banther and Micky Marvin.

Devilettes prove themselves as Girls

Coach Judy Murray, in her 1st year as the Girls' Basketball coach, led her team through a near perfect season. The girls gave each game everything they could and were determined to win.

Each girl had more than ample ball handling skills and accuracy in shooting. Their long hours after school gave them the perfection of champions. The team worked together and like a finely tuned machine, the games went smoothly. They bounced their way to a successful season which was hard to match. With the advancement of the players, next year's team should be able to uphold the record.

Devils struggle to win

The Boy's Varsity cagers suffered a disappointing season this year. With few of the starting five returning, many of the boys on the team had never played varsity ball before. Even with all of their many setbacks the boys were truly determined to improve. As the season progressed, they won several games to finish the season with a record of 4 wins and 15 losses.

The team was led by Seniors Randy Frisbee, Mike Morris, and Jay Hemphill. Their performances played a large role in the team's victories. Mike Morris also held the title of W.N.C. high scorer throughout the entire season, averaging 27.1 points per game. Coach Charlie Owenby had many valuable Sophomores and Juniors on the team that are sure to benefit next year from their ball handling experience.

Jay Hemphill struggles to outjump his opponent.

J.V.'s learn that a pin isn't easy to attain.

The J.V. Wrestlers had a busy season. They had several matches and participated in several tournaments. For the first time seventh and eighth graders were allowed to be a part of the team. The larger team gave the boys more competition during practice.

One of the objectives of the J.V. team is to prepare the boys for the Varsity Wrestling team. The hours of practice and the match experience they acquired will pay off next season.

Conference title won again

BHS matmen continued their winning streak this year. With an undefeated season last year, the Devils were the target for the rest of the schools in Western North Carolina. The teams they had to compete against were tough and many were hard to defeat, but the record of the Brevard team was not to be blemished.

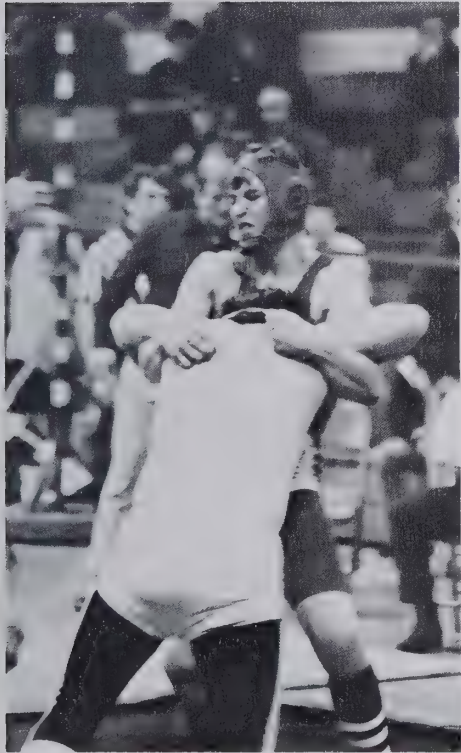

The spirit of the team was always high, and the individual efforts of the team members made this year's wrestling team unbeatable. Efforts of such outstanding wrestlers as Stan Hudson and Mickey Marvin, who took first place in the Tuscola Invitational Tournament, contributed to the team's many victories. Other members, such as Brad Palmer, Ronnie Banther, and all the other participants helped to capture the Mountain AAA Conference championship for the second consecutive year.

The Baseball team grew in popularity this past year. The spectators seemed to attend in large numbers for every game. Their record was an improvement over last year's team with wins and losses. There were many outstanding players and the overall performance of the team was the reason for the improved season.

Coach Craig Fogleman will have many returning players this season and is hopeful that the team will have a successful year.

Spirit runs high

The 1971-72 Track Team had a rebuilding year under the leadership of Captains Terry Crite, Mike Heath, and Brad Palmer. Consisting of very few upperclassmen, the team showed signs of weakness in many positions. It was the most determined and high-spirited team Coach Emory has ever coached. Losing only one senior, this year's track team should have a very successful year.

Netters bounce to a better season

T. Coker returns a serve.

Interest in tennis has been springing up all over the country and it left its group of new players at Brevard. Many players, including for the first time girls, were on the team and some of them were very skilled. Crowd support and interest was also noted by the team. This spring BHS should have a strong tennis team.

Good form while serving is important in tennis, as shown by Mike Morris.

J. Hill shows the ease of tennis.

Golf team goes to State

1972 Golf Team: Kim Edens, Gary Johnson, Kent Anderson, Steve Hunter, Mark Tooley.

Golf, in its many years at BHS, went to state competition last year and took 11th place. This year the toughest competition will be from Tryon. With 12 hard matches, the golf team's efforts should come out on top.

Much individual time is spent on various golf courses in the Transylvania area, especially at Glen Cannon where all home matches are held. Individuals were recognized for their personal performances, but the team as whole felt the need to give golf a name at BHS. Interest increased in the student body, and golf became a vital part of our athletic department.

J.V. Cheerleaders support freshman teams

The J.V. Cheerleaders perform a cheer during a basketball quarter.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders for 1972-73 learned that cheerleading was more than just an hour of practice three days a week. They had many new ideas and learned the values of working together.

The J.V.'s also helped the school by selling football programs at Varsity games. They were ever willing to lend a helping hand. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Hutchins and the leadership of their chief, Julie Ammons, they learned cheers and techniques that will be valuable in the future.

Cheerleaders lead the crowd in a cheer before the Enka game.

The Varsity Cheerleaders for this year went through several changes. These changes included the addition of two more girls to the squad of twelve.

They were a busy bunch of girls. Even when they weren't practicing, they were making signs for the teams or posters for the coaches doors.

Several trips highlighted the year, including going to a N.C. State football game in Raleigh and attending the State Wrestling Tournament.

CLASSES

Classes were the nucleus of B.H.S. A unity was revealed through meetings, clubs, and projects. Feelings of closeness were expressed through emotions of happiness and sorrow. To the classes, a memory of this year will be togetherness.

The Class of '73

Seniors display the spirit of Blue Rhythm during Homecoming Week by the construction of their float.

The class of 1973 was one of the greatest classes that Brevard High has ever known. The Seniors have clung together for strength and support for the past twelve years. They brought the school together more this year than ever before through classes, pep rallies, sports and many other activities. Many Seniors helped to improve the school by their participation in clubs and student government. For Seniors there were many lasts and they succeeded to make them the best ever. Their memories of being together for one last time will be cherished forever as their hopes for the future are formed.

Juniors live

The 72-73 Junior Class was exemplified by their easy-to-get-along-with nature. The average Junior was a seemingly care-free individual. He was very thorough in everything he undertook, including his efforts which produced a prize-winning float, and numerous money-making projects for the Junior-Senior. He looked forward to his future seniority with great anticipation, though not without a touch of disbelief. In preparing for the coming year, he had to put aside many joyous memories, to rush headlong into a bewildering uncertainty, as to what course his future would take. He knew, however, he would live it and love it, as he did yesterday.

Juniors work together to make a First place float, "Play It Again Blue".

Miss McGaha, Junior Class Sponsor, finds a way to make your day easier.

The Junior Class Officers are: Dennis Clark, Pres.; Terri Weaver, V. Pres.; Ann Goldberger, Sec.; and Sandy Adams, Treas.

72-73 Sophomores work

Caren Tate soon found that energy made the job go faster.

As the sophomore returned to his second year at BHS, he felt that he was somehow returning home. He knew that this year would be hard, but took it a little easier because he realized he was going up, not down on the ladder toward seniority. Upperclassmen and teachers accused him of being cocky, while he constantly tried to combat the yearly sophomore slump. Despite the difficulties of floats, pep rallies, changing schedules, and just growing a little older, the sophomore is ready once again to face another challenging year, hopefully as a new junior.

Denise Deaver works diligently.

Freshman Class experiences

Participation of many produces a prize float.

The Freshman Class of the 72-73 school year found the true value and meaning of togetherness. They quickly learned the importance of team work in athletics, building a float and working in their individual classes. Then they put their findings into practice in all activities in which they were involved.

It was an exciting year with new ideas and new faces. But the Class of 76 came through, and will be an asset to BHS in the future, with their high spirit and willingness to show what they had to offer.

J. McDonald finds hard work results in good grades.

Class officers are: Denny Whitmire, pres.; Sammy Cudd, treas.; Penny Hall, sec.; Sydney Folger, vice-pres.

I have had the pleasure of editing the 1973 Brevardier. The annual staff has spent much time and talent to produce a yearbook the students of BHS could enjoy.

There are many people who have helped us in making this annual and deserve much credit for its publication. Mrs. Jim Leinster, our advisor, for her guiding hand; Mr. Frank Arnette, our representative from Delmar, for his efforts in communicating with our printing company; Coach Deal and the graph-optics class, for without them we were nothing; the Faculty and Administration for their patience and understanding in our deadlines; the staff who gave so much to produce this yearbook; and finally the student body for creating a year worth telling.

Marcia Martin
Editor

Faithful and true-hearted,
Let us boost for our old high.
We revere her and defend her,
As her colors proudly fly.
We will stand for her united;
Of her deeds we'll proudly tell.
Her colors streaming,
Glad faces beaming,
So here's a cheer for her,
That we all love so well.

Joyous and ever loyal,
Let us boost for our old high.
Let every heart sing,
Let every voice ring;
There's no time to grieve or sigh.
It's ever onward our course pursuing,
May defeat ne'er our ardor cool,
But united we will boost for Our Brevard High School.

As the year comes to an end, we pause a moment to take one final glance over 1973. We have given ourselves to BHS and have gained much. Many are ready to move into new scopes of living, others have found a pattern to follow, while all of us have matured through acting and reacting together. 1973 was unique — nothing can ever be quite the same. But more important than the past, is the future. Hopefully tomorrow will hold all the happiness of this year and more. It was a very good year when we were together in 1973.

Hola Pato!

Bill,
It's really been fun. Remember all the stuff
we've done. See
ya next year
Vert.

Bill, you're terribly crazy and twice as wonderful - keep smiling because that makes other people smile. Hope we will see more of each other this year and this summer.
Love is beautiful so give it to everyone.

Love & happiness
Beth Neof

Beto,
I always write to much so I'll try to be short cause you know all that I would say. I hope you will always be my friend cause the value in that is more than anything else. Let's do something this summer.
Love,
Libby McIntosh

P.S. Remember Mrs. Nissen's Christmas Party that was a rained out hay-ride. Practicing Yoga Exercises.
I wasn't going to write alot - but I am. Because there is so much I could say. I can always say to be sure and remember the time last year when we went tubing and you left me. Then I didn't get to see you much ~~last~~ ^{last} summer but I am this summer. Let's go biking, o.k.? and when you get your license you have to take me to Glen Cannon, that is not all cause when Bridges gets her license we are still going to go on that trip.
or before when you get yours. There is so much else. From second grade up you have just really been somebody special. I remember when I came home with you. What you told me about the creek, Bill!!! I believed you to! That is so funny - now. It wasn't then.
of course Colonel Hardin, we still need to pay him a visit - and that's for sure. Let us not forget McClure, she was really something before she got pure. Then taking all those pictures for Heart Tales. Football season this year was really a change for us to, I got lost in that graveyard with S.---S.--- looking for you and your buddies! I hope next year will even be better - but when we are Seniors - that will top it all. With you in astral, Libby

Libby Beto

Bill,
Another year
ends at B.H.S.
MAY be get together
this summer and
do something.

Bill,
Remember algebra
& Andrews (of course)
you're really a sweet
guy so stay & keep you
God Bless you & Love,
Jillie

Bill, know you
I don't well but I very know that you
just know sweet & nice.
are very sweet & letting
Thank you for annual.
me sign you me because
Never forget I won't forget
I know I good luck & away
you.
